About Us

Our Structure

All ten Caritas organisations share their ecclesial responsibility for social and charitable work in Austria and with respect to international aid. They are united in solidarity and closely cooperate in a variety of ways to achieve greater impact. Caritas Austria in its role as federal organisation serves as a coordinator and service provider assuming nationwide tasks while also working to reconcile the interests of all diocesan Caritas organisations.

As laid down in the statutes, the Caritas Austria General Assembly is the supreme decision-making body of the “Caritas Austria” institute, without prejudice to the legal independence of the diocesan Caritas organisations, and is responsible for the strategic cooperation framework of Caritas in Austria. Among other issues, it sets strategic priorities with nationwide relevance, decides on fundamental strategic goals and on the number and topics of the cross-diocesan management teams. The Assembly elects the Caritas President and the other four members of the Presidium. The General Assembly also appoints the General Secretaries of Caritas Austria.

Caritas provides assistance to those in need, with a special focus on Ukraine in 2022.

Dear Reader,

The year 2022 has presumably been exceptional for all of us, marked by a significant surge in the need for assistance. Not least, the war in Ukraine has turned the world upside down. Additionally, numerous other crises, conflicts, and natural disasters have caused hardship for millions of people, both in Austria and around the world.

Caritas is there to offer help wherever people are in need. In Ukraine, despite the immense challenges, we are able to provide immediate and effective assistance. This is made possible by generous donations from Austria and our network of partners on the ground. Our dedicated colleagues, sometimes even operating from bomb shelters, organise emergency shelters, provide warm clothing, food, first aid, and conduct evacuations. Caritas is also actively assisting in neighboring countries. In Austria as well, Caritas extends its support to refugees, ensuring they find hope and a path towards a better future.

The impact of the war is felt globally. Caritas serves as the last safety net for many people in Austria, especially amidst the current cost-of-living crisis. Furthermore, in the world's poorest countries, Caritas is present, providing aid to those in need and offering long-term support, empowering them to lead better lives.

By the way, you may have noticed that we have reduced the size of our printed Annual Report. Certainly, this does not imply that our work has become less; quite the contrary. We have decided to move our Annual Report to the digital domain in the future. This will allow you to interactively experience the full scope of our work – and by saving paper, we help conserve resources and protect the environment. You can read our comprehensive digital Annual Report here: annualreport.caritas.at

Thousands of volunteers continue to support us in 2022, through initiatives such as “Pfarrcaritas” (Caritas in the parishes), youngCaritas, or our community for humanity called “fuereinand.” Many people make donations, both on specific occasions and regularly, while numerous companies also reach out to us, assuming responsibility and making meaningful contributions. The overwhelming cohesion displayed within our country is truly remarkable, and I would like to extend my heartfelt gratitude for it.

This Annual Report showcases the collective achievements we have accomplished in so many places throughout the year. It also demonstrates our potential for future endeavors, as well as what still needs to be done, including policy measures, to prevent hardship and poverty. And above all, this report reveals one thing: that even in challenging times, humanity serves as our ultimate compass.

Yours,

Price Hikes and Nursing Shortages: Caritas is Here To Help

Austria. In 2022, rising prices and nursing shortages are burdening people throughout Austria. Millions are unable to meet their basic needs and are worried about their own or their relatives' future in old age. Caritas is here to assist people in such circumstances. During these challenging times, we help people to secure their livelihoods and receive the care they require.

The war in Ukraine has turned the world upside down and caused prices to soar. In 2022 inflation in Austria has surged to its highest level in 70 years. This has resulted in rising costs for essential items like energy, rent, and food. Numerous people in Austria, who were already struggling due to the pandemic, are now on the verge of financial collapse. The price hikes have contributed to a rise in poverty rates across the country, which reached 14.7 percent in 2022. The most vulnerable groups, including single parents, minimum pensioners, people with disabilities, and refugees, have been hit the hardest by this situation.

Caritas Broadens Its Reach With New Services

As annual bills continue to skyrocket, an increasing number of individuals are struggling to manage their finances in the coming months and are turning to Caritas social counseling centers for assistance. However, even Caritas is finding it challenging to handle the overwhelming number of requests. In 2022, all 71 of our social counseling centers were operating at full capacity. In Vorarlberg, for instance, requests for help with energy costs have quadrupled compared to 2021. Additionally, the nature of requests has evolved. According to Iris Ebner, the head of the social counseling center in Graz, "It's not just about the broken fridge anymore. About 90 percent of our clients can no longer afford their daily living costs." When you find yourself at a loss, Caritas is here to help. Throughout Austria, we offer a range of services to assist people in securing their livelihoods. Our social counseling centers, family centers, mother and child shelters, emergency shelters, housing facilities, food distributions, and other resources are available to those in need. In response to the growing demand for aid, we have expanded our assistance in 2022 by introducing online support through the "Caritas Wegweiser" (Caritas Guide). This online tool directs individuals to suitable services tailored to their specific circumstances, including online social counseling. Additionally, we have launched the "Wohnschirm" (housing umbrella) and "Energieschirm" (energy umbrella) services to provide support with high rent and energy costs.

The Challenge of Nursing Shortages

Many people face challenges when they are no longer able to care for themselves independently. At our nursing and care facilities, we are dedicated to promoting the highest possible quality of life and self-determination for elderly and ill individuals, even in the face of nursing care shortages. Every day, our dedicated employees put their heart and soul into providing people with the care and security they need. In addition to inpatient and mobile care, we offer a variety of services such as assisted living, meals on wheels,

Our dedicated care staff are committed to helping those who require assistance.

At the advocacy level, we have long been advocating for a sustainable care system and urging policymakers to implement effective measures. The 2022 care reform includes some crucial initial steps, such as a workforce offensive and increased support for family caregivers. However, many of these measures have a limited duration of two years, leaving many questions unanswered. From Caritas' perspective, it is essential to establish uniform standards across Austria, ensure higher salaries in the long run, provide flexible work schedules to promote work-life balance, and address other pertinent issues. We would also like to express our heartfelt appreciation to our dedicated volunteers. They play a vital role in assisting with food distribution, supporting the "carlas" initiatives, serving meals to the War in Ukraine. Immediately following the outbreak of the war in Ukraine, Caritas swiftly responded by providing emergency aid to displaced individuals, not only within Ukraine and neighboring countries but also in Austria.

War in Europe! Millions of Ukrainians find refuge within Ukraine, neighboring countries, and other secure havens such as Austria. Caritas promptly establishes emergency shelters, daycare centers, and long-term accommodations throughout Austria. Here, displaced people have the opportunity to find respite and recover from their arduous escape. We also offer guidance to refugees, including legal advice, and support them with essential needs such as food, beverages, heating, accommodation, as well as medical and psychological care.

Thousands of Volunteers Get Involved

Thousands of volunteers lend their support, assisting us at train stations, food banks, and parishes. The outpouring of goodwill is immense. In 2022, approximately 13,000 people volunteered to help Ukrainian refugees in about 1,500 parishes across the country. Their contributions ranged from collecting money and in-kind donations, holding fundraisers, and providing direct assistance to refugees from Ukraine.

Furthermore, our online volunteering community, "fuereinand.at" has activated various aid missions. Since the onset of the conflict, over 22,600 individuals have newly registered, exemplifying this remarkable solidarity.

As Caritas, we are also committed at the political level, primarily to ensure that displaced individuals have unrestricted access to the labor market and are able to work and earn additional income within the basic service system. In 2023, we will continue to emphasize that refugees must have long-term prospects. These include the opportunity to pursue extended education or vocational training and undergo the often time-consuming process of validating foreign qualifications. Moreover, we firmly believe that displaced Ukrainians should be eligible for social assistance.

Interview with Anna Parr

“More Expenses, More Assistance.”

Interview. In 2022, Austria has experienced the highest inflation in 40 years. In this interview, Caritas Secretary General Anna Parr shares insights into the pressing needs of people living in poverty at this time.

Poverty in Austria is on the rise. Who are the people particularly affected?

Anna Parr: The increasing hardship in Austria primarily affects minimum pensioners and welfare recipients. Additionally, low-income families with children bear immense pressure and are forced to make sacrifices that often have lifelong consequences, undermining their future prospects. Single parents, too, frequently grapple with monthly struggles to make ends meet. Being confronted with a substantial energy bill of several hundred euros, it has the potential to devastate their very existence.

Caritas has enhanced its assistance in 2022. How exactly?

Parr: As Caritas, it has been clear to us since the onset of the crisis: More expenses, more assistance. Consequently, we have increased the number of social counseling centers across Austria from 56 to 71, expanding our reach and availability of services. We have also intensified our efforts in food distribution, providing additional space in warming rooms and emergency shelters. Since 2022, we have extended our support to the online sector, offering comprehensive online social counseling throughout Austria that is prompt, convenient, and confidential.

Towards the end of the year, we launched two projects in collaboration with the Ministry for Climate Action and the Ministry of Social Affairs to address the surge in energy costs: the “Energieschirm” (energy umbrella) support program and energy-saving advisory services.

What do people need now to prevent sliding into a downward spiral of poverty as prices continue to rise?

Parr: As Caritas, we provide support to people when they can no longer cope. However, this cannot be the ultimate solution. Policymakers must not turn a blind eye, either. In recent months, politicians at the federal and state levels have allocated billions of dollars in aid. However, the one-time payments frequently provided were only a temporary relief for those affected by poverty. What is truly needed is a social assistance system that offers a genuine safety net. This entails covering the actual costs of housing, establishing standardized child allowances, implementing comprehensive childcare services, and raising the minimum pension and unemployment benefits.

Children and Young People

Growing Up With Opportunities

Children in Need. Millions of children and young people worldwide endure extreme hardships during their early years. Poverty, war, displacement, hunger, and insecurity profoundly shape their lives and hinder their access to education. Caritas firmly believes that every child deserves a joyful childhood and a future filled with opportunities.

The war in Ukraine is not the sole contributing factor to the worsening situation faced by children in need in recent years. In 2022, armed conflicts and wars have erupted in over 25 countries, directly impacting an estimated 420 million children. Whether enduring within war zones or displaced from their homes, these children confront fear, hunger, and disease, which exert a significant influence on their future paths, including limited opportunities for schooling.

Even in a wealthy country like Austria, 22 percent of the children and adolescents face the risk of poverty. The cost-of-living crisis exacerbates their situation. Children live in unheated homes, go to bed hungry, experience constant insecurity, and encounter diminished opportunities for education, future prospects, health, and active participation.

Whether at the international or national level, Caritas remains dedicated to supporting children in need.

Helping Children in Crisis Zones

As Caritas, we strive to create an environment in crisis zones where children can thrive, receive the necessary supplies and care, and acquire the tools to overcome poverty or simply survive. In Ukraine, Caritas provides vital emergency aid by distributing essential supplies such as food, water, hygiene items, clothing, and household goods. We also offer shelter, protection, and psychosocial support. To ensure the safety of children and caregivers during air attacks, bomb shelters are installed in children's centers.

In Pakistan, Caritas assisted families and children affected by the devastating floods of the summer of 2022. We have provided life-saving food parcels, tents, tarpaulins, and emergency medical services to those in need.

Education as a Pathway Out of Poverty

Caritas empowers children to access the education system despite crises and conflicts, offering support such as school supplies, language courses, and nutritious meals at schools. In Caritas centers in the Republic of Moldova, refugee children establish connections and have the opportunity to participate in online classes at their Ukrainian schools.

In projects like the Beth Aleph preschool in Beirut, Lebanon, over 100 preschool-age children from Syria and impoverished countries in Africa and Asia benefit from nurturing care and educational guidance. Additionally, parents receive legal and social support, while Caritas Lebanon staff go above and beyond to secure school placements for the children.

In Austria as well, Caritas focuses on assisting children facing challenges at

Children and young people can participate in cool initiatives for a good cause at youngCaritas.

Over 24,000 participants took part in the “LaufWunder” charity run in 2022, raising an incredible 500,000 euros for Ukraine and children in need.

In collaboration with Ö3 radio station and the Red Cross, the fall and winter seasons were dedicated to the “Wundertüte macht Schule” (“Your Lucky Bag Matters”) campaign. Austrian students collected 14,657 old mobile phones, turning hazardous waste into support for children and young people facing challenging circumstances.

Furthermore, over 3,000 young volunteers of the “actionPool” campaign have also contributed to Caritas institutions by distributing food, sorting clothing donations, and spending time with senior citizens.

Amidst War and Famine

Ukraine. Worldwide. In February 2022, when Ukraine was attacked following rising tensions, life changed for millions of people from one day to the next. The war has also had a global impact, particularly on countries in Africa and Asia, where hunger is on the rise again. Whether providing acute emergency relief during times of war or long-term support in times of famine, Caritas is there to help.

The war in Ukraine is causing immense suffering every day. As Caritas Austria, we have been working in Ukraine for over 30 years, and our strong partner network has allowed us to provide rapid assistance as soon as the conflict began.

In the neighboring countries of Ukraine, such as the Republic of Moldova and Slovakia, Caritas provides assistance to incoming refugee populations, organising accommodations and offering psychosocial support.

Delivering Life-Saving Aid in Wartime Ukraine

The humanitarian situation in Ukraine is reaching catastrophic levels. Each passing day intensifies the hardships and despair experienced by the population, as relentless shelling and acts of violence persist. The UN reports that nearly 18 million Ukrainians, or almost 40 percent of the population, rely on humanitarian aid for survival. Our organisation is providing crucial assistance, including food, clean water, and safe shelter to individuals who have been internally displaced or whose homes have been destroyed. In areas subjected to ongoing attacks, we are establishing emergency response centers to provide aid to vulnerable groups, including children, the elderly, the sick, and people with disabilities. Despite the challenging circumstances, our dedicated colleagues and hundreds of volunteers carry out extraordinary work, even operating from bomb shelters. In safer regions, we are creating child-friendly spaces where children can engage in sports and recreational activities to alleviate mental stress. We also offer medical care and psychosocial support to those in need.

Caritas Responds to Growing Hunger

War, inflation, rising oil and food prices: The war in Ukraine is causing repercussions in other parts of the world, leading to a renewed surge of hunger in the world's poorest countries. Efforts since the 1990s, such as supporting small-scale farming families in their agricultural work and animal husbandry, as well as implementing measures to combat acute malnutrition in children, have successfully reduced hunger rates by half. However, in recent years, the hunger crisis has once again worsened, primarily due to the combined effects of climate change, the Covid-19 pandemic, armed conflicts, income inequality, and currently the escalation of food prices resulting from the war in Ukraine.

Countries in the Middle East, Asia and Africa are particularly vulnerable to these challenges. Prior to the onset of the war in Ukraine (2020), up to 811 million people were already suffering from undernourishment, according to the United Nations. The World Food Program (WFP) is concerned that even more people will be suffering from hunger and poverty.

Emergency Aid and Building Sustainable Climate Resilience

In times of acute famines, we actively support families with food. This includes situations of conflict, floods, lockdowns, destroyed crops, or disrupted supply chains. At the same time, Caritas addresses long-term hunger challenges, such as supporting small-scale farmers in developing sustainable climate resilience. We provide agricultural training that focuses on enhancing soil fertility and promoting the wider use of compost. Through these endeavors, we strive to ensure food security for their families.

Moreover, in 2022, our dedication to climate justice remained unwavering. One example of our commitment can be observed in our efforts in the Democratic Republic of Congo. We collaborate with the national Caritas organisation to advocate for improved government policies and land laws that foster sustainable farming practices among small-scale farmers, alongside other initiatives. Our goal is a future free of hunger.

Support for Refugees in Africa

Regional program in Uganda and South Sudan funded by the Austrian Development Agency: The countries, already burdened by prolonged conflicts and crises, were further impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic.

The three-year regional consortium program, named 'LEAVE NO ONE BEHIND', operates in both Uganda and South Sudan. It has received funding from the Austrian Development Agency since 2021, utilizing resources from the Foreign Disaster Fund (AKF). The program is implemented through the collaborative efforts of partner organisations including Caritas and 'Light for the World', with the goal of enhancing the livelihoods of nearly 200,000 people. The program aims at assisting all population groups in the project regions, with a particular focus on children, women, the elderly, and people with disabilities. The initial activities encompass short-term humanitarian aid measures, including the distribution of food, hygiene packages, and Covid-19 prevention items such as face masks and disinfectants.

Long-Term Prospects

Furthermore, the program offers support through long-term initiatives. There is a specific emphasis on safeguarding women and children from violence, given their heightened vulnerability to such acts. Additionally, the program endeavors to ensure access to hygiene measures and healthcare facilities. Young people are also provided assistance in their professional development, including training courses, the promotion of entrepreneurial skills, and access to vocational training programs. To combat hunger, the program assigns small plots of land within resettlement shelters for training individuals in vegetable cultivation and livestock breeding.

A testimonial of the women participating in the program, "I am Susan, a single mother from South Sudan. I live in Gumbo IDP Camp with my three children and two family members. I lost my beloved husband during the civil war. Since then, it has been struggling to support my family on my own. I joined a training course on farming and poultry keeping. Now, I am more prepared, and I can grow okra and kerkede on a 200-square-meter plot of land. It has improved our nutrition and our livelihood."
